Special to The Tribune.

PROVO, Feb. 7.—The complaint in the suit of the Provo Reservoir company against Provo city and others, to adjudicate the rights to the use of the waters of Provo river, has been filed in the Fourth district court.

The defendants, of whom there are 450, include all the users of Provo river water in Utah and Wasatch counties—municipal corporations, canal companies and individual water users other than the plaintiff.

Plaintiff sets out that it and each of the defendants have and claim an interest in the waters of Provo river, and asks that defendants be required to set forth the nature and amount of their respective claims, and that all adverse claims be determined by a decree of the court, and that the court appoint a competent civil engineer to distribute the water to which each of the parties to the suit may be entitled.

The plaintiff has constructed reservoirs

The plaintiff has constructed reservoirs at the head of Provo river for storing the flood waters of the river, and has ac-quired other waters which it delivers quired other waters which it delivers through its canals, and canals to be constructed to its stockholders in Utah and Salt Lake counties.

It is alleged that many of the defendants, who have a right prior in point of time to the appropriations of plaintiff, use the water diverted by these defendants in quantities largely in excess of that necessary or beneficial for the irrigation of their lands, and also that the regulations for the distribution of the waters of the river are inadequate and not in accordance with the statutes of the state.

the state. The two former decrees of the Fourth district court (that of May 6, 1899, and that of September 7, 1905) were, it is alleged, based on the assumption that the whole flow of the water in the river was located and appropriated and applied to a necessary and beneficial use; that conditions are now changed by reason of large quantities of flood waters being stored, and that the capacity of the river for irrigation has thereby been greatly increased.

The plaintiff has, for months past, been engaged in making a hydrographic survey of the territory irrigated by Provo river waters, and has data on the number of acres irrigated and water used by each water user. Testimony will be introduced as to the duty of water, which the allegation that water is being wastefully used may admit. The defendants will claim they are entitled to the waters previously decreed to them.

The attorneys for plaintiff are A. C. Hatch, Jacob Evans, A. J. Evans and Affred L. Booth.

Gambling was suspected in connection with the illegal use of liquor. The two detectives have had access to the club since coming to Brigham, through affiliation with members, and their work came to a climax shortly after midnight, when the entire police force of the city, together with the sheriff and his deputy, closed in on the club. Entrance was gained by the aid of the detectives, who were on the inside, and three local men were gathered in while indulging in a quiet poker game. It is said that they were caught in the act of exchanging money over the table, but the principals in the game assert that one man simply "cashed" a check for another as a matter of accommodation. The officials seized the money, card tables and everything else in sight that could be used as evidence against the three men, and placed them under arrest.

MISS RHEA VIRGINIA O. W. OTT DELIVERS FINAL DECLINATION

Informs Mayor Park That Private Business Prevents Accepting Inspectorship.

Formal refusal to accept the appoint ment of chief smoke inspector was made by O. W. Ott, mechanical engineer, in a letter sent to Mayor Samuel C Park yesterday.

Mr. Ott writes that he would be glad to be of service to the city in private capacity, but points out that if he assumed a public office his private practise as a consulting engineer would be seriously hampered and curtailed and that in trying to attend to both duties he would be subject to criticism.

It was Mr. Ott who suggested the creation of a smoke bureau and aided in the preparation of the ordinance which passed several days ago. He was the choice of the commission for the position of chief inspector at a salary of $1800 a year. In conference with the mayor Friday afternoon Mr. Ott said he could not af ford to devote all his time to the worl ford to devote all his time to the work for $1800. It was suggested that per-haps the department could be so organ-ized that an assistant chief could be engaged who would relieve Mr. Ott from actual inspection duty. This would leave him free to act in a consulting capacity and at the same time continue his private practice.
